

If these are our kids, do your schools need to change?

Dr. Sharon Faber

Educator, Author, International Speaker

Dr. Sharon Faber is a nationally recognized speaker and consultant with more than 30 years of experience as a teacher, assistant principal, principal, English and Reading Supervisor, Director of Leadership Training, Middle School Facilitator and professor. Sharon has written extensively on literacy and leadership at the middle and high school levels and is the author of the best selling book, How to Teach Reading When You Are Not a Reading Teacher (2006). Dr. Faber motivates and inspires educators throughout Canada and the United States with energy, humour and practicality.

On the Book Shelf

How to Teach Reading When You Are Not a Reading Teacher

Using current research on learning styles and methods, this resource will help teachers choose and use thinking and reading strategies that enable students to comprehend the content as well as read individual words. Learn how to model your own thinking processes as you read for content and process the information after you read to help your students do the same.

Hot Topics

- How to Teach Reading When You Are Not a Reading Teacher
- Writing is Essential to Reading Success
- Literacy and Leadership, a Winning Combination
- Teaching Academic Vocabulary Effectively
- If These are the Kids, Does Our School Need to Change?
- The Brain, Learning and Best Practice
- Discipline with the Brain in Mind
- Learning and Self Esteem Go Hand-in-Hand
- If These are the Kids, Who Should the Adults be?